Furnish people with numbers. Spring & Co., CPAs puts their clients' needs first. To make them stand out in their industry and to reflect the firm's approachable and consultative business style, we created a new brand identity and redesigned their website. We used bold colors to design their logo and kept everything consistent when designing all their new brand collateral. We also simplified their website's site map, allowing the site's visitors to find important information quickly. The result: a user-friendly website to go along with their new brand.
